This is the second book in the Inquisitive Pioneer journey and is focused on the topics of Electricity & Magnetism in many ways. Though many common items are used as in the first book, there is a need for some electronic items particularly the multi-meter. This book is like the first in that All Activities require data measurement and data analysis. With parental permission and supervision one can make simple batteries, a basic capacitor, a leyden jar, measure a magnetic field, make a basic electric motor, and use solar cells to study them and to use them to study light and the energy of the sun.
