My Educational Philosophy is that students need to proactively get their education for themselves. My teaching style involves lots of Collaborative Learning, a methodology that will require you to take responsibility for your education. Group Work plus good communications skills plus research and risk taking, practiced within a developing learning community will allow you to obtain the education you need. You will get that education, and live, in a highly multicultural world, a world which has been shrunk by technology, and by politics. It is imperative that you understand other cultures, as well as your own. At the same time you need to be technology-literate in order to prevail (as opposed to merely enduring to use William Faulkner's words) in the current millenium. In addition, I believe that you should strive for excellence in your education, and you must be a bit selfish to accomplish that--you need to GET YOURS. You have already selected an outstanding Community College, with lots of great teaching, to get the first two years of your (relatively low cost) education. Your challenge in your life-long learning is to now figure out how to go to only two years of a great four-year school, then get your Masters Degree, etc. You need to figure out what your aptitudes and interests are, how to be admitted to a great school that will foster those, and how to fund that education. You cannot afford not to go to a great school. If you want to know which great school is best for you, and visit that school online, start your search at Princeton Review. If you need or want a scholarship, go now, immediately to FASTWEB.Com, and start your individual scholarship search. Do not say, next life I will go to Harvard--Do it this trip; do it now!
